

Trade and the Environment:

Theory and Evidence

Brian R. Copeland and M. Scott Taylor

Table of Contents

Preface		v
1	The Trade and Environment Debate
1.1	Globalization and the Trade versus Environment Debate	1
1.2	Two Questions and a Preview of our Answers	2
1.3	Our Method of Analysis	7
1.4	Plan of the Book	11
2	Pollution in a Small Open Economy
2.1	Introduction	16
2.2	Technology	21
2.3	Equilibrium along Net and Potential Frontiers	31
2.4	Scale, Composition and Technique Effects	53
2.5	Endogenous Pollution Policy	63
2.6	Conclusion	74

3	Is there an Environmental Kuznets Curve?
3.1	Introduction	84
3.2	Equilibrium Pollution and the EKC	89
3.3	Sources of Growth	92
3.4	Income Effects	98
3.5	Threshold Effects	107
3.6	Increasing Returns to Abatement	118
3.7	Conclusion	126
4	Trade Liberalization and Environmental Quality
4.1	Introduction	136
4.2	Trade Frictions	140
4.3	Trade Liberalization with Rigid Pollution Policy	142
4.4	Trade Liberalization with Flexible Pollution Policy	154
4.5	The Political Economy Motive	163
4.6	Conclusion	171

5	Pollution Haven Models of International Trade
5.1	Introduction	183
5.2	Exogenous Policy Differences: Rigid Emission Intensities	187
5.3	Exogenous Policy Differences: Marketable Permit Systems	196
5.4	Endogenous Pollution Havens	188
5.5	Global Pollution and the World Composition Effect	202
5.6	Environmentally Friendly Pollution Havens	218
5.7	Northern and Southern Institutional Differences	219
5.8	Conclusion	234
6	Factor Endowments, Policy Differences and Pollution
6.1	Introduction	246
6.2	Exogenous Policy: The Role of Factor Endowments	248
6.3	Endogenous Policy: Factor Endowments and Comparative Advantage	257
6.4	Correlated Characteristics: Being Rich and Capital Abundant	261
6.5	An Illustrative Example	268

6.6	Conclusion	277
7	Is Free Trade Good for the Environment?
7.1	Introduction	284
7.2	Three Questions that Deserve an Answer	290
7.3	The Pollution Data	294
7.4	Deriving the Reduced Form	297
7.5	From Theory to Estimation	311
7.6	Empirical Results	322
7.7	Alternative Specifications and Theories	334
7.8	Conclusion	341
8	Summary and Conclusions
8.1	Flexible Pollution Policy	354
8.2	Growth is not Trade	356
8.3	The Pollution Haven and Factor Endowment Hypotheses	357
8.4	Directions for Future Research	361