Textbook(s):

Todaro, Michael P. and Stephen C. Smith, Economic Development, Ninth Edition, Boston: Pearson Addison-Wesley, 2006.

Book(s) on Reserve:

A list of specific topics and required readings will be provided in the first week of lectures, including a list of books on reserve.

Course Content:

The course will examine economic development and the economic problems and potential of developing economies.

Grade Determination and Final Examination Details:

The final grade that each student receives will be based on the following weighting scheme:

Term Paper	25%
Mid-term Examination	20%

Assignments (two)	20%
Final Examination	35%
	100%

Group Work

At the beginning of the term you will organize yourselves into groups of up to 4 students each. One or both of the assignments and the essay will be done as group projects. Each group will submit only one set of answers per assignment.

When you hand in an assignment, or term paper, I will ask each member of the group to assess the relative contributions of the other group members. These assessments will be used to determine the individual's score relative to the group score.

(a) Term Paper

Specific details about the required term paper will be provided in class. Note that the grading of your writing will be a factor in the evaluation of your performance in this course.

(b) Assignments

There will be two assignments, each of which is to be submitted at the beginning of class on the date due. In exceptional cases they may be handed in before that date to the instructor personally. Late assignments will be given a score of zero, although you may still wish to have the work corrected and returned without a score being recorded.

(c) Examinations

The mid-term examination will be held in class on a date to be announced. The final examination will be scheduled by the Registrar and will last two hours. It will be a comprehensive examination of all material covered in the course. All examinations will be closed-book. Students will not be allowed the use of calculators or other aids during any examination.

(d) Course Grades

A numerical score will be determined for each item of work submitted and a final (weighted) numerical score will be determined. A course letter grade will be assigned based upon the following conversion chart for final numerical scores:

A+	90 - 100	B	73 - 76	C-	60 - 62
A	85 - 89	B-	70 - 72	D+	57 - 59
A-	80 - 84	C+	67 - 69	D	50 - 56
B+	77 - 79	C	63 - 66	F	0 - 49

If, for some reason, the distribution of grades determined using the aforementioned conversion chart appears to be abnormal the instructor reserves the right to change the grade conversion chart if the instructor, at the instructor's discretion, feels it is necessary to represent student achievement more fairly.

A passing grade on any particular component of the course is not required for a student to pass the course as a whole.

Students seeking reappraisal of a piece of graded term work (including the mid-term exam) should discuss their work with the instructor within fifteen days of it being returned to class. Regraded work stands an equal chance of having a higher or lower score assigned. Any term work which is not returned during regular class time may be collected from the instructor during office hours.

(e) Absence from examinations:

Make-up examinations and deferred examinations will not be given except in cases of extreme personal emergencies. Also, examinations will not be given before the indicated examination date. For further information see pages 42 and 45 of the 2005/2006 Calendar.

I welcome any comments you may have about the course during the term. When something is not clear during a lecture, do not hesitate to ask questions or to come see me during office hours.
