Posner, Richard A. Economic Analysis of Law, Little, Brown, Boston, latest edition.

Course Outline:

Although economists have been interested in the law for a long time - for example, laws concerning tariffs, minimum wages, trade unions, banks, monopolies, and income taxes - what has come to be known as the "Economics of Law" is primarily the study of common law (laws made by the courts through the operation of precedent) and criminal law.

This course will be divided into four sections. In the first, we will (briefly) investigate a number of economic theories that underlie the economic analysis of law. Then we will look at three types of common law rules - the laws of contract, tort, and property.

As those of you who are not going on to become lawyers will not have much opportunity to use most of the theory taught in this course, the main goal of the course will be to provide you with experience applying rigorous logic to topics about which most of us are accustomed to thinking in emotional terms.

Grade Determination and Final Examination Details:

There will be two take-home assignments worth 20 percent each (due October 23 and November 20), an essay worth 35 percent (due December 5), and a final exam worth 25 percent. The assignments and essay may involve group work (see below). To calculate your final letter grade I will sum your marks on your assignments, essay, and exam to get a mark out of 100.

Tests and final exams are marked on a numerical (percentage) basis, and then converted to letter grades. The course grade is then calculated using the weights indicated above. As a guide to determining standing, these letter grade equivalences will apply:

A+	90 - 100	B	73.5 - 76.4	C-	60 - 63.4
A	83 - 89.9	B-	70 - 73.4	D	56.5 - 59.9
A-	80 - 82.9	C+	66.5 - 69.9	D	50 - 56.4
B+	76.5 - 79.9	C	63.5 - 66.4	F	0 - 49.9

A passing grade on any particular component of the course is not required for a student to pass the course as a whole.

Non-programmable calculators will be allowed during the writing of tests or final examinations.

There will be a Registrar scheduled final examination, lasting 2 hours and held in a classroom. Essays will be returned to students at the final exam.

Tests and exams will not involve multiple choice questions.

Group Work:

Assignments and essays may be done individually or as a member of a two-person group. Each group will submit only one set of answers per assignment. Group composition does not need to remain fixed. If you wish, you can form new groups for each project.

If you feel that you did an unfair proportion of your group's work, you may indicate that to me at the time you hand in the assignment and I will adjust the group members' relative marks accordingly. (For example, if I find that one member did 20 percent more work than the other, I will give first member 1.10 times the group mark and the second 0.90 times the group mark.)

Notes:

- Students seeking reappraisal of a piece of graded term work (term paper, essay, etc.) should discuss their work with the Instructor within fifteen days of the work being returned to the class.

- Concerning the Instructor: You are asked to observe and respect my office hours. If you wish to meet me outside of these times, please make an appointment with me beforehand. You are welcome to write me via e-mail to ask questions about the course materials. I will respond as soon as I can.
- There will be no make-up or deferred examinations or assignments. Students may not write examinations early. If a student has legitimate reasons for missing an exam (e.g., documented illness, family emergency or religious observance), a make-up exam will be scheduled. If an assignment deadline is missed for legitimate reasons, an extension may be given, at the discretion of the instructor. If a make-up exam or assignment extension is not possible, the weight of the missed task is shifted to the final exam; otherwise a grade of zero is assigned.
- Desire2Learn: This course will make use of the Desire2Learn (D2L) platform. Students who are registered in the course can log on at <http://d2l.ucalgary.ca> using or through their student centre. Please note that D2L features a class e-mail list that may be used to distribute course-related information. It is your responsibility to ensure that D2L uses the e-mail address of your choice. The default is your University of Calgary e-mail address.
